

'Cuppa': Transcript

The shot opens in an empty kitchen. A hand chooses an egg from the carton and it is broken into a bowl. A wider view shows the chef is a man with Down's Syndrome, who is whisking the eggs with a carer in the background.

Man: Phew look at that.

Carer: That's it, get in there...

Man: Come on egg. The man carefully pours the egg mixture into a saucepan and we see him stirring it on the hob.

Carer: What we doing later?

Man: We're going into town.

Carer: Yes, and do you know what we're going to get?

Man: Trainers?

Carer: Yes and you're going to look snazzy.

Man: Oh yeah.

The man removes the toast from the toaster.

Carer: This week we're going to have to look at all your bills.

Man: More and more bills.

Carer: Yeah I know they're boring.

The man carries two plates of food and puts them on the table.

Carer: We make breakfast together every day – it's not me doing the cooking, it's Elliot.
